

FAQ

Cold Brew Tea Pot

Q. Where should I put tea leaves in?

A. Please put them directly into the pot. As the lid and the tea strainer are combined, the tea leaves do not come out when the tea is poured. As the tea leaves slowly unfold in the large space, the tea flavor diffuses into the water over time.

Q. Please let me know how to make delicious MIZUDASHI tea.

A. When you use tea leaves for MIZUDASHI, follow each directions for use. For other tea leaves, please try the following. Please make adjustments freely as the steps change depending on the type of tea leaves and brewing time.

1. Put 5-7 heaping teaspoons of tea leaves (about 15 grams) into the pot. (A heaping teaspoon of tea leaves is about 3 grams.)

[Attention!] Insufficient tea leaves will not produce good tea.

2. Pour water up to the 1000 ml line in the pot.

3. Replace the lid/strainer and leave the pot for 3-6 hours to brew tea in a refrigerator.

Put tea leaves in.

Pour water and cool it.

4. Before drinking it, rotate the pot as illustrated to spread the good flavor evenly.

[Attention!]

When rotating the pot, make sure to keep the lid on. Never shake it vertically.
